

Free Access to More Data on the SingStat Website from 1 March 2015

Data users can look forward to free access to some 12,000 statistical data series on the SingStat website. The data series span across multiple topics within two broad themes, namely population and economy.

In line with the Government's intention to make more data available to the public as we build a Smart Nation, the Singapore Department of Statistics (DOS) will be making more data, including approximately 5,000 more data series, available for free on the SingStat website (www.singstat.gov.sg) and the Government's Open Data Portal (www.data.gov.sg) from 1 March 2015.

The free access to more data, especially historical time series data, will encourage research and lead to better planning, more informed decision-making and the creation of new solutions.

Through the SingStat website (www.singstat.gov.sg/tablebuilder), interested users will be able to customise data tables, view the data in chart form, and download the data in reader-friendly formats for further analyses.

Apart from the online statistical database, the website also contains a wealth of statistical information disseminated in various forms, including publications, analytical papers and infographics, to cater to a diverse group of data users.
